Visual Identity

RAZER

This academic project focuses on a strategic Brand Identity refresh for Razer. The process began with deep research, using Competitive Analysis and User Personas to guide the art direction. From there, I curated Moodboards to develop the reimagined logo. The final result is a cohesive visual system, demonstrated through high-fidelity Mockups applied across various physical and digital Brand Touchpoints.

Sweet sentiments

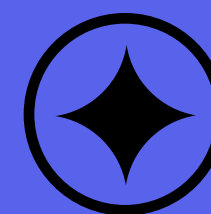

For this academic project, I developed the complete Brand Identity for 'Sweet Sentiment,' a conceptual bakery in Ottawa. Applying a strategic approach, I conducted Competitive Analysis and defined User Personas to shape the brand's visual style. A major focus of this project was Print Design, where I created a complete Bakery Brochure to display the menu and brand story, alongside other high-fidelity Mockups.

UI-UX DESIGN

Active life Center

For this academic project with Active Life Center, I managed the end-to-end UX lifecycle entirely within Figma. My process began with robust research, conducting focus groups and competitive analysis to inform detailed user personas. Moving into the ideation phase, I mapped out the information architecture with a sitemap and iterated through low-fidelity wireframes. Finally, I established a scalable design system to build the high-fidelity UI, delivering a fully interactive prototype and website design grounded in user feedback.

SOCIAL MEDIA

SWEET SENTIMENTS

As a personal side project, I designed a collection of social media assets to extend the Sweet Sentiment brand identity. I created the vector graphics using Adobe Illustrator, then utilized Adobe Photoshop to build a realistic Instagram page mockup, visualizing how the layout and aesthetic would look in a live digital environment.
